Mr. A. H. Purdy and Mr. Dentke, United States Assistant District Attorneys, are getting up a large criminal calendar, and they expect that a number of cases which have been accumulating for years will be soon cleared off. In all cases where they are satisfied that the evidence in their possession rould not lead to a conviction before a jury they will cause not. pros. to be entered. According to new law of Congress, a criminal term will be field Benedict is to preside at such term.

A rumor prevails in legal circles that Mr. Tremain and the counsel associated with him intend to make an application for a "struck" or special jury in the trial of the civil suits against William M. Tweed. It appears there can at present be no "struck" jury in a criminal presecution. The application of this city or to the Superior Court of Buffale. It is not certain that the Court of Common Pleas has the power to make such an order. Possibly special legislation may be resorted to so as to enable the prosecution in the criminal case to have the benefit of a "struck" jury.

The hearing of the case of George W. Bowen vs. elson Chase was resumed yesterday in the United States Circuit Court before Judge Shipman and the special jury. The whole of the day was occupled with the giving of testimony in rebuttal on the part of the plaintiff. Among the witnesses examined was G. W. Bowen, the plaintiff. He was recalled for the purpose of stating under what circumstances he met Joseph Pery, one of the wites, who had testified in his behalf at the last trial, and whose evidence on that occasion turned out, and is now conceded to be, a tissue of falseboods. The trial will be resumed to-day.

In the United States District Court yesterday, before Judge Blatchford and a jury, in the case of John J. Hinchman and others vs. Simon Gruhn which was an action to declare the defendant a bankrupt, the jury, by direction of the Court, found werdiet, declaring that the debtor had committed the first act of bankruptcy alleged in the petition.

pleyment of Margaret Hunt, boarding house keeper, 49 East Thirtieth street, charged the latter efore Commissioner Shields with giving her in payment a representation of a five dollar bill, which ontains some kind of advertisement, and refusing to take it back. The matter was placed in th hands of the secret service to find out where this peculiar kind of five dollar bill comes from.

The pseudo "Lord" Gordon, who, about a year ago, monopolized so much attention in the Courts, as at length, as the legal phrase is, been put out of Court. His suit against Jay Could to recover some half a million dollars, which he claimed the latter had belonging to him, was called on for trial resterday before Judge Van Brunt, holding Supreme Court, Circuit. As no one answered on behalf of Gordon Gordon, the Court ordered a dismissal of the complaint.

In the Foley-Palmer injunction case Judge Barrett, of the Supreme Court, yesterday executed a sharp flank movement on the counsel. They should have handed in, it seems, forms of order modifying the injunction, in accordance with his recent decision, but failed to do so. As only one did so, he endorsed the paper with the statement that he should dismiss the matter from further considera tion until the counsel handed in their proposed torms of order. A speedy settlement of the order

A rather curious suit was tried yesterday before Judge Barrett and a jury against a life insurance company. The defence was of that technical char acter that the Judge had to rule against it, and the result was an award for the plaintiff.

In the Marine Court yesterday an action was tried in which the plaintiffs sued the Erie Railroad Company for the value of the contents of a trunk which he had expressed to the depot of the company, but which had never been checked for its intended destination. It was duly delivered at the depot by Dodd's Express, but not to any attaché of the company, and as it had not been so delivered and checked the relationship of passenger and carrier was not established and the Court on this showing non-suited the plaintiffs.

Mr. O'Conor interposed and objected.
Judge Shipman—What is the object of inquiring

Counsel for plaintif said he intended to show the lostility of Madame Jumel to Mr. Chase and his lamily.

The witness went on to say that Madame had told him she had driven Mr. Chase away, did not intend him to leave him a cent of her money and asked witness to come and take charge of her property; witness received a letter from Mr. Nelson Chase interning him that the arrangement about witness taking charge of the property was at an end; Madame said Mr. Chase was trying to make every one believe that he was a relative of hers, but that he was not; that Mr. Pery and his wile were not related to her by blood; that Mr. Chase's first wile was a poor but handsome girl, whom he had picked up and whom she (Madame) had taken into the house; witness described obstructions which, he said, he had received at the hands of Mr. Chase in getting into the mansion to see Madame; on one occasion Madame gave witness a knife, and told him that if any one wanted to keep him out to show that knife and he would be let in at once; Madame often compained of Mr. Chase, and said he was going there every week for money to live on.

AN OFFER CALCULATED TO PRIGHTEN THE JURY. Mr. Hoar here offered to submit to the jury the account books of Dr. Randali, for the purpose of showing that there were no entries in those books relating to Betsy Bowen after 1791.

Judge Shipman—Do you propose to submit all those books to the jury to read?

Mr. Hoar—I see no other course unless we read the whole of the books, and it would take about a week to do so. (Laughter.)

Mr. Carter replied that he had read certain entries from those books, and if the other side could find entries in the books that they wanted to prove the proper way would be to call witnesses to the stand to do so.

Judge Shipman said that the jury were not to assume that there were any entries in those books relating to Betsy Bowen after 1791 or 1792. If they were to assume anything whatever in relation to the books they were to assume that there were no entries in them after 1791 relating to Betsy Bowen.

THE FLAINTIFF RECALLED AND EXAMINED.

G. W. Bowen, the plaintiff, recalled. He said—I have been informed by Freelove Ballou who my mother was; I could not tell at what time of her life she so informed me; probably a year or two before she died; I could not tell exactly the time.

The Judge—It is conceded that Freelove Ballou died in 1823.

Witness—I had seen Joseph Pery not more than a day or two before he was examined; it was in Providence; he came up and spoke to me in the street; I said I did not know him.

Witness was about to depose to a conversation he had with Joseph Pery on that occasion when Mr. Carter said It had been shown on the last trial that Joseph Pery's testimony was a tissue of falsehoods, and Bowen himseli had sworn to Pery's identity and to the facts sworn to by him. He therefore considered that the evidence now proposed to be given was wholly madmissible.

Q. Had anything transpired between the time of your meeting him in the street and the time of seeing him in the office of the Commissioner that affected your belief as to who he was?

Mr. Garter objected to this question as asking for the opinion of the witness, and not for facts.

The Court ruled that the testimony was inadmissible. Q. Have you ever doubted the truth of this Joseph Pery's statement?

Mr. O'Conor objected to the question as leading and incompetent.

Question ruled out.

Q. When you stated on the former trial that you knew this man, Joseph Pery, how did you come to say you knew him?

Mr. O'Cenor objected to the question.

Mr. Hoar argued it would be competent to prove that a person was in adark room, and that another going into it thought he knew that person, though it might turn out that he was an entirely different party.

it might turn out that he was an entirely different party.

Judge Shipman—It would be competent to prove the darkness of the room.

Mr. O'Conor—'Moral darkness." We have seen some of it in this case.

The evidence was excluded, plaintiff's counsel noting an exception.

Q. When you testified on the last trial of this case, did you suppose that you knew that witness, Joseph Perry A. I thought I knew him.

this Joseph Pery before he came to you? A. I hever did; I did not ask any one to find laise witnesses in my favor.

The witness was then examined at some length in reference to the conversations which had taken place between him and Mr. Charles Hart, attorney for Mr. Chase, in Providence. He was also questioned with regard to what he had said in relation to his parentage to Mr. Michael W. Devine, when the latter was down in Providence making inquiries concerning the will suit. The witness said:—I told Mr. Devine that my mother died—(the witness here immediately corrected himself, and said)—I told him that she went off and left me when I was a baby. I told him that she went away leaving me among straugers: I did not tell him that I did not know Madame Jumel was my mother; I did not tell him that I I had known Madame Jumel was my mother when I saw her at Saratega, I would have made myself known to her.

Out of the regular order of proof, in order to dispense with the attendance of an officer from the City Hail library. Mr. Hoar put in evidence an entry from the New York Directory of 1797-8—"E. Brown, shipmaster, Harmon street, no number."

The further hearing of the case was adjourned till to-day, when, probably the rebutting testimony will close.

THE FOLEY-PALMER INJUNCTION.

Delay in Submitting Forms of Order Modifying the Injunction-Judge Barrett's Suggestive Hints to Counsel-The Temporary Injunction Still in Full

The legal controversy between John Foley and Chamberlain Palmer was yesterday again before the Courts, but it came up in rather novel shape. The matter in point had reference to the temporary injunction restraining the banks in which the city and county funds are deposited from paying to the City Chamberlain any interest on the same and the Chamberlain any interest on the same and the Chamberlain from receiving such interest. In connection with this injunction, it will be remembered, was granted an order to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent. When the matter came up last before Judge Barrett, at Supreme Court Chambers, a modification of the order was directed by the Court, allowing the banks to pay the expenses of the Chamberian's office, including the salaries. Mr. Smith, the Corporation Counsel, objected to any payments being made by law, upon warrants drawn by the Mayor and countersigned by the, Comptroller. Both parties were directed by the Court to submit such modification of the order as in their view should be made and he would settle the order.

Judge Barrett yesterday gave the papers to the Clerk, with the following endorsement:—"The plaintiff's proposed order has not been handed up, and I have no papers in the case except those now handed to the Clerk. I therefore dismiss the matter from further consideration until the proper papers, including the original order of injunction, are submitted to me."

The examination of the papers given to the Clerk showed that a form of order had been submitted on behalf of Mr. Paimer. This order modifies the original injunction so as to allow the banks to pay the expenses of his office, On behalf of Mr. Foley, in the case of the configuration of the papers and the banks to pay the expenses of his office, On behalf of Mr. Foley, in the case of and the Chamberlain from receiving such interest or the city, no Gram of order was submitted. As stolen, was discharged, the Grand Jury falling to find an indictment. The bonds were restored to the owner.

Henry Dean, in his lifetime, obtained two polices of life insurance, one for $10,000 and the other for $5,000, from the Ætna Life Insurance Company.

The policies were what are known as "participating policies, and the premiums, falling due on September 20, were to a paid one-half in notes and the balance in cash. Interporated in the policies were ber 20, were to a paid one-half in notes and the balance in cash. In-prorated in the policies were the usual clauses of forfeture in case of failure to pay the premiums. Mr. bean died, and the company refused to pay to his dow the amounts of the policies, on the ground of the policies, on the ground of mon-payment, at the date requireture through miums. Mrs. bean accordingly brought is, the prette company to compel payment of the painst on her behalf it was claimed that befort the last premium was paid an extension of the time of payment to the November following was granted by the general agent of the company; that then only one-fourth cash was to be paid, and the balance in notes at thirty and ninety days. The company denied any such argument, and that, if made the company was not bound by it.

The case came on for trial yesterday before Judge Barrett, holding Supreme Court, Circuit. The principal points at issue were whether such an arrangement as that claimed on the pat of the plaintiff had been made, and whether the company could be bound by it. It was held by Judge Barrett that the general agent had no power to renew a policy which had lapsed, but if made before, as was claimed by the plaintiff, it was binding on the company and kept the policy alive.

Campbell, her only son, and the rest of the property to nephews, nleees and other relatives. The son now contests the will on the grounds that a large part of the property bequeathed was in reality owned by nim, having been ostensibly, although not really, conveyed by him to his mother, and that his mother was unduly influenced in making her will by the other legatees. The case came on for hearing yesterday, but after the testimony of the subscribing witnesses to the will had been taken an adjournment was had.

in the third degree. The evidence brought out by District Attorney Russell was that on the 11th of District Attorney Russell was that on the 11th of December the prisoner called at the store of Charles Shaefer, No. 33 Second avenue, and requested him to give him one of his checks for $20 in exchange for bills, which he did. On the following day the prisoner requested a boy named Farquhar to go to the National Citizens' Bank, corner of Broadway and White street, to get the check cashed. The boy went to the bank with the check, which was altered from $20 to $200.

Mr. Mott took every legal objection to the testimony which skill and ingenuity could suggest, but the proof was so convincing that the jury rendered a verdlet of guility without leaving their seats. As there was another indictment for forgery and an indictment for felonious assault against Lee, the Recorder imposed the highest penalty which could be indicted for forgery in the third degree, which was imprisonment in the State Prison five years.

The Communication of Dr. Nealis, of the ney, Pronouncing Him Insane-Conversation with Assistant District Attorney Russell-Heinrich's Madness To Be Tried by a Jury-Opinion of the Tombs Warden.

A few days ago news was brought to District Attorney Beach, from the Tombs, that the notorious bond thief and the Jonathan Wilde of New York, Henry Newman alias Henry Ryan, alias Dutch Heinrich, was acting in a most peculiar manner and that he was considered to be out of his mind, and suffering from "emotional insanity." In this state of matter Mr. Beach communicated with Dr. Nealis, the doctor in charge of the City Prison, and requested him to make a thorough inwhich the following is a digest:—

City Prison, Feb. 6, 1873.
To Assistant District Attorney Russerl.:—
Draw Siz—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication, requesting me to make an investigation into the question of Dutch Heinrich's sanity. After having studied the question, I would state that my own opinion, is he is insane; but I beg to suggest that he be examined by medical experts perfectly familiar with lunney. And in view of this I would suggest that the opinions of Professor J. R. Wood and Dr. Hammond be had on the subject. Yours respectfully, M. T. NEALIS.

Last evening a reporter of this pnear called appre

bhad on the subject. Yours respectfully, M. T. NEALIS.

Last evening a reporter of this paper called upon Mr. Russell to learn what course would be taken with the celebrated bond thief should it be proved that his insanity was real and not leigned.

Mr. Russell stated that the case will be put on the calendar and the question of insanity tried by a jury, and should Heinrich be found insane he will be kept in a lunatic asylum until he has sufficiently recovered his reason to be tried again, or he will be kept there as a measure of prudence.

Butch Heinrich was brought down on a writ of habeas corpus from Auburn Penitentiary, on the 23d of last November, where he was undergoing his long term of imprisonment, for a downtown robbery of $40,000 worth of bonds. He was captured in the act by the Stock Exchange detective, Thomas Sampson. The history of his robberies, many of them gigantic, would fill a volume, and he may be considered to have taken the highest honors in the predatory art. In a conversation last evening his counsel said, "In my mind I have not the slightest doubt that Heinrich is really mad."

THE WINSTON-ENGLISH ACTION FOR LIBEL. Liberty of the Press Involved in It. TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD :-

Your correspondent, Mr. William K. McClees, puts some "pertinent questions," undoubtedly, regarding the Winston-English action for libel. Mr. McClees, however, views it from the light of policy-holder only. I desire that it should be looked at from a higher standpoint, in the interests of the public at large.

It appears to me that the real liberty of the press is involved in the proceedings taken already in this suit. I am no advocate for freedom for the press to say what it pleases on public questions and public men. I do not want "license" instead of "liberty." I am not inclined to limit the power of a law of libel. I would rather extend it. I say if Mr. Winston has been libelled he ought to sue for damages by all means. That should be his legitimate right.

But Mr. Winston has not brought any action for damages, legally, against Mr. English. All that has yet been done is just this:—Mr. Winston has made affidavit that he is about to bring an action for certain alleged libels in the Insurance Times. State, and he asks that Stephen English shall be arrested and held in custody unless bailed to the upon him, and no offence whatever committed by him.

This is said to be "a free country." I know of no other civilized country where any man could be thus deprived of his freedom. The Americans boast of "a free press." I know of no civilized nation where in a contemplated action for money or damages for libel an editor of a newspaper could be so deprived of his liberty. Do you?

In England, Ireland or Scotland, if such an action were even fully brought, Mr. Winston could not touch Mr. English until he gained a verdict, "taxed" his costs and entered his judgment. The Sherin's service could not be called into requisition until after the final decision of the case before a jury and the judges.

in the face of such facts as these it appears to me little short of mockery to tell me that "this is a free country" and to boast of "the liberty of the press" in it.

If Mr. Euglish were at home in the county Clare, in Ireland, he could not be thus deprived of his ireedom and incarcerated in a prison. If I were at home in the county better the country clare, in the land, he could not be thus deprived of his ireedom and incarcerated in a prison. If I were at home in the county Lettrim, Connaught, Ireland, I could not hear of such a case occurring.

ireedom and incarcerated in a prison. If I were at home in the county Leitrin, Cennaught, Ireland, I cound not hear of such a case occurring.

In this State of New York ought not gentlemen who fancy that they have been libelled by the press be allowed to await a verdict of their peers before they obtain power to arrest any editor or proprietor of a paper?

There is no offence of any kind proved against Mr. English. No complaint has been made but the stilly "belief!" of Mr. Winston that Mr. English would leave the State, Mr. Winston does not believe anything of the sort. His lawer merely put it in the affidavit for him, and this Sabbath-school superintendent swore it accordingly. And on an allegation of this sort a respectable citizen is incarcerated in jail in New York.

If Mr. English were some rum saloon bully, committing depredations on society, he could enjoy perfect freedom in New York; but as a respectable gentleman, conducting a respectable, upright and ably-managed insurance journal, he is deprived of his liberty, even without any complaint being yet legally made against him, much less any case being established before a jury.

This appears to me to be the great public question involved in Mr. English's arrest. It is one which affects the entire freedom of the press in America. As an old pressman, anxious to preserve its liberties, I put this issue above any mere dollars of policy-holders' moneys which Mr. Winston may be squandering in this matter. I hope that Mr. McClees is patriotic enough to do the same.

Such a power in law as Mr. Winston has put in force ought not to remain on the statute books of the State of New York for a month with the Legislature in session. It ought to be at once repealed. Where any one snes for libel he should have to wait for a verdict before being able to touch a proprietor or editor sued for damages. If a man feels that he has been seriously libelied let him take criminal proceedings if he likes; but if he takes a civil action for damages let him wait for his verdict and his money. Yours, truly,

JAMES ALEXANDER MOWATT.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

Regular Monthly Meeting—Sound Steam-boats and Pier Lines—The Late Commander Maury-Resumption of Specie Payment-Memorial to Exempt Bonds

The regular monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held at their rooms, No. 63 William street, yesterday afternoon, the President, William E. Dodge, in the chair. Following the reading and approval of the minutes of the last meeting J. ron, Joshua Hendricks, James Stokes and Charles G. Tefft were elected members of the Chamber. Committee of Arbitration.

HEAD MONEY PROM SHIPS.

Mr. ELLIOTT F. SHEPARD, in the absence of the chairman of Committee No. 4, reported that it was inexpedient for the Chamber to act upon the question of refunding the head money collected from ships by the State of New York, which was re-cently submitted to them for consideration.

Mr. Paul N. Spoppord, Chairman of Committee No. 6, reported that in reference to the question of not allowing passenger steamboats to pass below Corlear's Hook, on the East River, and to stop above pier No. 14, on the North River, lately sub to take any action. But in reference to "restoring the exterior bulkhead and pier lines of 1857, and taking from any and all parties the power to alter and encroach upon the said lines for any purpose whatever," the committee reported favorably. Mr. GEORGE W. BLENT thought the question of the Sound steamboata passing down the East River was one of importance and entitled to more conderation than that apparently given it. After subject. was accepted he moved that the whole to a spech. passed. The esident appointed, as that committee, George W. Lant, Paul N. Spofford and Elliott F. Shepard.

Resolved, That a copy of this paper, duly much resealed, be sent to his widow.

Resolved, That a copy of this paper, duly med and scaled, be sent to his widow.

The resolutions were adopted with but one dissenting voice, that of Mr. Blunt, who opposed this senting voice, that of Mr. Blunt, who opposed this scalephion in denouncing the deceased in reference to his course during the late rebellion.

RESUMPTION OF SPECIE PAYMENT.

Colonel Conkling offered the following preamble and resolution in reference to the resumption of Specie payment:

Whereas the establishment, maintenance and universal recognition of a universal standard and measure of value have long and justly been deemed essential to the growth and development of industry and the sure and steadfast prosperity of trade and commerce; and whereas or an antional departure from such standard was only dictated and excused by the exigencies and imperative necessities of a gigantic and mest costly struggle for the preservation of our national integrity; and whereas powerful interests are now striving to perpetuate the qualified national insolvency thus recognized and legalized for reasons wholly unconnected with any actual or alleged mability of the government to resume specie payment; therefore, Resolved, That in the deliberate judgment of this Chamber it is the clear, imperative dictate of public interest and national honor that the federal Treasury shall, at the earliest possible day, resume the payment in coin or its equivalent of all its obligations payable on demand or from time to time falling due.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions, duly authenticated by the seal of the Chamber and the signatures of its Fresident and Secretary, be transmitted to the President of the United States and to both houses of Congress.

A motion to refer the preamble and resolutions to Committee No. 3 for consideration was supported by Mr. Opdyke, who severely handled Senator Sherman's bill upon this subject now before Congress. Colonel Conkling urged the adoption of the resolutions, and, among other things, said that an irredeemable indated currency detrauded labor of its legitimate reward. The resolutions were finally referred to Committee No. 3 to report at the next meeting.

EXEMPTING BONDS AND MORTGAGES FROM TAXATION. Mr. BARSTOW urged the adoption of a memorial to the Legislature asking the exemption of bonds and mortgages from taxation.

Mr. Opdyke supported the memorial, and, upon motion, it was ordered that it be referred to Messrs. Barstow and Conkling, with power. It was also ordered that the memorial of last year, touching upon this subject, sent by the Chamber to the Legislature, be reported, and that at once. The Chamber then adjourned. A motion to refer the preamble and resolutions
